Possibly notable people from Bethesda could be invited such as authors, govt. leaders.

Police officer on crime and safety in the neighborhood

Construction and zoning permit officials.

Notable people in the Bethesda area--authors, politicians, etc.

Perhaps a directory of people in the neighborhood, and what they like to do (hobbies, or sports they play, or other talents they'd like to share with others), e.g. - bird watching, hiking, singing, knitting, etc.

1) In connection with shred-it or clean up event, consider adding donation event where local charity like wider circle brings truck for donation pick up. Could we use school parking lot or similar for central location?

2) maybe new neighbor welcome event for those that have moved in in last few years family events!

Discussion with neighbors who use only native plants in their gardens. Maybe a support-group kind of thing. Tour those gardens that are made up of native plants. Maybe a speaker from the MD native plant society, the Maryland Extention service, etc.

I think a house tour or kitchen tour would be a lot of fun and well attended. However, we would have to really think out security concerns from people opening up their houses. Perhaps a fee could be charged and go to a neighborhood project or else a charity. That might help bring just interested neighbors.

I would be happy to help arrange a wine tasting combined with some kind of neighborhood pot-luck dinner, maybe limited to 8-10 people at a time so it could be held in someone's house.

Halloween Block Party

story time event for toddlers

That's a good list to start with

Play dates by age groups or interests, parenting or school related discussion
